Air Yorkshire Polo Shirt

I have been liaising with a supplier of a Polo Shirt with “Air Yorkshire Aviation Society” embroidered on the front.

I purchased one and I am happy with the quality and the price which is only £6.99. It is available in 15 Colours and 8 Sizes

It is purchased through EBAY and the idea is for members to purchase the polo shirt from EBAY themselves. If you haven't purchased using EBAY it is very straightforward but perhaps you could ask someone to purchase on your behalf

In the end if you are having a problem purchasing let me know and I will see what I can do.

Please use search on google for “EBAY search Flair Merchandise UNEEK 101”

When ordering I can supply an image of the required text. Just email me at alan.sinfield@airyorkshire.org.uk

Meeting Room - There may be a change to the meeting room for future meetings. Please look out for emails and information on the website

Visits 2018....

Howard Griffin

The annual outing to Amsterdam was very well attended and we were blessed with superb weather, no flight delays and a good day was had by all. The top floor eateries are still out of commission and there is no screen with registrations on but FR24 filled many gaps..Look out in the next mag for a visit to the The Museum of Science and Industry at Manchester and NOW CONFIRMED Ravenair at Liverpool in September. Email me howard.griffin@airyorkshire.org.uk with your ideas and I'll see what can be done.

East Midlands – the Aeropark are having an enthusiasts day on Thursday 14th June. I know its short notice but I'll be going. Anyone need a lift – email me.

PARIS – Musee de L'air et Espace – The Dugny store open days this year are September 15th & 16th. If anyone else is interested in going then please email me. There are far more aircraft in the storage area than on display at Le Bourget and then there are the biz jets as well..
Local Events

Sutton Bank – regional Gliding competition is 12-18 August. I am planning to go on Saturday 18th – again if anyone interested, please email me, Also Slingsby Vintage gliding week is 26th August to 01 September so ditto for that.

Sherburn – RAC Air Race Saturday July 14th and BAA aerobatic competition on September 22nd

Bagby 7 February....

David Thompson

There have been lots of changes here since my visit in August last year for the fly-in with the most obvious being the newly re-positioned fuel installation which is now all above ground and serviced by tankers rather than the old underground tanks . The clubhouse still remains although Graham Fox Aircraft Engineering have vacated the adjacent hangar , Hangar 3 and moved across to the southside , taking up residency in the large hangar previously used by Swift Aircraft before they moved to Wombledon . The grand-plan is for the former maintenance hangar to become the clubhouse which will see the demolition of the original clubhouse which dates back to it's official opening on the 10 May 1986 although the airfield opened in the March when Bagby Aero club was formed . Plans for the redevelopment of the airfield can be found via The Real Bagby Airfield Facebook page , link here ; https://www.facebook.com/therealbagbyairfield/?hc_ref=PAGES_TIMELINE&fref=nf and the development plans , documents and layout drawings can be found here ; <http://documents.hambleton.gov.uk/Anitelm.WebSearch/Results.aspx> .

Elsewhere drainage ditches have been dug to help to keep the 06/24 main runway free from surface water as well as installing new runway lighting and the small private hangars , sheds ! , near the new fuel installation are all to be demolished . This will leave only the Fox hangar and it's smaller over-flow hangar and the Harpin-Homserve Bell 429 hangar on the southside whilst on the northside the large 'agricultural' hangar will remain as will Tom White's Bagby Aviation hangar and the smaller lean-to hangar . This could well leave Bagby short of GA hangarage unless more northside development takes place ?

Dreamliner or A330??....Alan Sinfield

Long haul flights from Manchester have now become the norm for myself and Alison, but interestingly all five return flights to date have been on Thomas Cook Airbus A330's UNTIL NOW!

Our first flight on a TUI Dreamliner to Barbados was on Sunday 4th February 2018. All the hype by Boeing and TUI about the Dreamliner was to be tested for the first time.

The boarding of the flight commenced on time and we were allocated across the aisle seats towards the back/middle of the plane (We are tight Yorkshire folks - [I am anyway], who won't pay for specific seats! – We sat 5 rows apart on the return). However, the first negative aspect of the Dreamliner, in my opinion, is that it is configured in a 3-3-3 seat plan in Economy where Thomas Cook's new cabin is 2-4-2 which seems to fit better for couples or in fact families with 2 adults and 2 children....

The first impression of the cabin was not as impressive as I was expecting. The windows are incredibly large, and the cabin height is somewhat higher than normal. The windows blinds are dimmed electronically, but nobody seemed to bother adjusting them – A gimmick?? The lighting looks normal until the cabin crew gave a pointless demo of the special coloured lighting after departure. The width of the cabin in the 787 seems less than the A330 but actually it is slightly more. I guess the seat arrangement makes it feel narrower.

When we took off and when we were in the cruise phase the Dreamliner was definitely quieter than the A330. Because the 787 is made of composite materials the air pressure can be less than in a traditional aircraft, meaning that it is more comfortable during the flight and afterwards. I must say that I felt more at ease during the flight, but I don't think the jetlag or tiredness was any better afterwards.

In terms of the seats in Economy there wasn't much to choose between the 787 and A330 though I think the Thomas Cook seats in their A330 have slightly more leg room and were more comfortable.

In terms of the meals served on board they were very similar, though Thomas Cook market them as James Martin meals and the presentation was better. A nice touch on the Thomas Cook flights is that you are served a mini ice cream during the outward flight.

In terms of the drinks service there is a big difference, in that you pay for your drinks in Economy on Thomas Cook, whereas on the TUI Dreamliner there are two free drinks services and wine with the first meal. There is no choice of wine on the TUI flight and it is service out of large bottles, so if you don't like Sauvignon Blanc, for example, you have to have something else. Also a big issue on the return TUI flight was that they ran out of GIN and other drinks which was disappointing for some.

Toilets – The Dreamliner toilets are probably a bit larger than normal and a spread throughout the cabin which can be a nuisance. On some Thomas Cook aircraft (ex MyTravel ones) there is block of toilets downstairs which I think works really well for congestion in the cabin.

Overall and I know I am probably biased, but I would say there isn't actually a lot to choose between the TUI 787 Dreamliner and the Thomas Cook A330, but my preference is the THOMAS COOK AIRBUS A330. Their cabins have been completely refurbished and actually makes the Airbus aircraft look newer internally than the TUI Dreamliner.

LEEDS/BRADFORD NEWS

Thomas Cook Holidays have announced a new route from Leeds to Tunisia for the 2019 summer programme. Flights will operate once weekly on Wednesday by Tunisian airline Nouvelair using Airbus A320.

Jet2 have received two more new Boeing 737-800's have arrived for Jet2. G-JZBM was delivered into LBA on the 26th April, and G-JZBN soon followed, arriving on 30th April. Both wear the Jet2.com "Red Tail" livery. . No further deliveries of new aircraft are scheduled now until August. Deliveries of the pre owned 4 Boeing 737-800's has yet to happen as we close for press. However two aircraft have now left Lasham. G-DRTD tried to get from Lasham to Dublin on February 28th, but ended up diverting to Liverpool due to weather at Dublin. The aircraft was then flown Liverpool to Dublin on the 3rd March. Then on May 12th it was ferried from Dublin to Bournemouth, and then returned again to Dublin on May 18th. G-DRTF was ferried from Lasham to Dublin on the 23rd April. Leaving the fleet, Boeing 737-300, G-CELF flew Newcastle - St Athan on the 26th April.

AIRPORT NEWS

Durham Tees Valley Airport has offered a £1 million sweetener to attract airlines. Dubbed the "Air Connectivity Facility", the deal requires airlines bid for a seven figure sum in return for strengthening ties with the beleaguered airport. The money would be paid out by the Tees Valley Combined Authority (TVCA) over three years, if the plan is given the green light this week. The money is being offered to help strengthen ties with airlines, and get more flights using the airport. A meeting of the TCVA discussed the possibility of a deal in February with public money earmarked to help reduce the risks for airlines looking to branch out. The importance of flights to Schipol Airport (Amsterdam) from the airport were stressed. Tees Valley mayor Ben Houchen backed the deal, saying this was a key part of his "longer-term plan if we get hold of the airport." Passenger numbers are tiny, and fell from 140,902 people in 2015 to 132,369 in 2016. A report on the £1m fund proposal pointed out the airport's perilous predicament with the continuing decline of the airport labelled a "significant risk" to the region's economy.

Dubai International is maintaining its status as the world's busiest International airport. Passenger traffic at Dubai International grew year-on-year by 4.5 per cent, after 7.85 million passengers travelled through the airport during March. Taking into consideration the earlier Easter holiday period, passenger figures climbed from 7,511,431 during the same period in 2017, to 7,852,501 in March of this year. Overall passenger numbers are up 1.1 per cent during the first quarter of 2018 rising to 22,741,194 compared to 22,496,596 recorded during the same period in 2017. The number of passenger flights in March fell 1.5 per cent to 34,126 compared to 34,634 last year, however the passengers per flight continued to be above industry average in March with 230. London topped the list of destination cities during the month of March with 348,434 passengers, followed by 216,970 passengers from Mumbai and Bangkok with 208,873 passengers.

Edinburgh airport has overtaken Heathrow on number of domestic air passengers, though numbers of domestic passengers are falling overall for both airports. Heathrow has been trying to win favour with regional airports, implying that they will get links to Heathrow if there is a 3rd runway. The reality is that many domestic flights are not profitable, and can only be maintained if subsidised by the industry or by government. Now figures show that Heathrow no longer has the largest number of domestic air passengers, having fallen behind Edinburgh. In the past 12 years the number of passengers on domestic flights, to or from Heathrow, has fallen by 28% - while overall passenger numbers rose by 26% (Heathrow and the airlines prefer to use the slots for more profitable flights). There has been a fall in domestic passengers using Edinburgh too, but only of 14% - so it has overtaken Heathrow. Eight domestic airports are currently served from Heathrow. The only route to have been lost since 2005 is Durham Tees Valley, though frequency has dropped on many routes. Edinburgh airport says with its 12 direct long haul destinations, more passengers can avoid having to travel via Heathrow. Edinburgh airport (owned by GIP) is opposed to a Heathrow 3rd runway.

The CAA have released figures showing airport flight punctuality during 2017. Luton came worst, with an average delay of 19.7 minutes on each flight. This is almost twice as long as delays at the best performing airport, London Heathrow, where each plane is delayed by an average of 11 minutes. However great news for LBA is they are the joint 2nd most punctual airport in the country, only beaten by Heathrow. Well done team LBA !!!

Worst to Best airports for punctuality:

- Luton – 19.7 minutes
- Gatwick – 18.9 minutes

AIRLINE NEWS

Flybe is to remove the bulk of its jet aircraft from its fleet as part of its battle to become profitable. The regional carrier said it would trim its fleet to around 70 aircraft by early 2020 from a peak of 85 this time last year. All nine Embraer 195 jets will be disposed of, but “a number” of the 11 smaller E175s will be retained for longer or busier routes. Another four E175s due for delivery next year will be absorbed into the fleet as planned. The decision means the bulk of Flybe passengers will fly on Bombardier Q400 propeller aircraft. In a Stock Exchange statement, the carrier said: “Flybe’s Q400 fleet remains a relatively young one, with an average age of just over 10 years. The airline has accordingly concluded that it will retain its remaining Q400 aircraft and, where economic, extend their service lives.” This will save considerable capital expenditure over the next few years, by avoiding the requirement to acquire new aircraft. “The airline’s chief executive Christine Ourmières-Widener said: “Flybe’s strategy is to reduce the fleet size to an optimum level and make the business demand-driven rather than capacity-led. “Our fleet configuration is an important part of that strategy. We examined exhaustively all the options and concluded the Bombardier Q400 is the best core aircraft for us. Its superior economy, speed and quietness is ideal for a regional airline such as ourselves. Together with a number of Embraer E175s, our future fleet will be the optimum required for our specific regional route network.” Flybe lost £6.7 million in 2016/17 and has warned that last winter’s severe weather would reflect its full-year results by around £4 million.

The carrier saw 2017/18 half-year profits before tax fall from £15.9 million to £8.4 million in the six months to the end of September 2017.

Jet2's summer 2019 season is expanding Airbus A330 operations at Manchester, based on the airline's recent schedule filing. Following routes will see A330 operating from late-May 2019.

Jet Airways have opened reservation for its planned Mumbai – Manchester service, scheduled to commence on 5th November. Subject to Government Approval, the airline plans to operate this route 4 times a week, with Airbus A330-200 aircraft.

Norwegian Air Shuttle has rejected two separate proposals from International Airlines Group in relation to an acquisition of 100 per cent of the share capital in the airline. The conditional proposals were reviewed in conjunction with NAS' financial and legal advisers and were "unanimously rejected". Norwegian said directors had rejected the bids because they undervalued Norwegian Air Shuttle and its prospects. "The board of Norwegian Air Shuttle remains fully committed to delivering on its stated strategy, for the benefit of all Norwegian Air Shuttle shareholders," read a statement. In April, IAG took a 4.6 per cent stake in Norwegian as it mulled a takeover.

Qantas has announced an order for six additional Boeing 787-9s to fly on its international network. The move is set to bring its fleet of Dreamliners to 14 by the end of 2020. The arrival of the new aircraft will enable the airline to accelerate retirement of its last six Boeing 747s – an aircraft type that has been in its fleet in various forms since 1971. Qantas Group chief executive, Alan Joyce, said the announcement was an important moment for the national carrier. "This really is the end of one era and the start of another. "The jumbo has been the backbone of Qantas International for more than 40 years and we've flown almost every type that Boeing built. "It's fitting that its retirement is going to coincide with our centenary in 2020," Joyce said. "Over the years, each new version of the 747 allowed Qantas to fly further and improve what we offered passengers. "The Dreamliners are now doing the same thing.

Ryanair has announced the launch of its overall 86th base, located at Dusseldorf. The airline will introduce routes to Alicante, Malaga and Palma with a based Boeing 737-800.

VLM Airlines have announced two new service's from Belgium to Manchester. The airline plans to operate flights from Antwerp, twice daily, and Ostend once daily, with Fokker 50 aircraft. Services will commence on 1st October.

Ctrip.com has announced the completion of a strategic investment in Boom Supersonic, the leading supersonic airplane developer. Boom is applying the proceeds to accelerate the development of the company's Mach-2.2 airliner. Boom and Ctrip are working together to bring supersonic flight to China. Leveraging its extensive knowledge of the Chinese market, Ctrip will help Boom accelerate its ongoing partnership efforts with airlines in China. Ctrip is uniquely positioned to help Boom navigate the Chinese airline industry. Additionally, Boom will help Ctrip explore offering its customers ten-to-15 seats on one of Boom's first several supersonic commercial flights. Together, the two companies are working to make the world more accessible by halving flight times from China to the United States, south-Asia, and Oceania. "Ctrip offers valuable expertise in the Chinese travel market, and we're excited to work with their passionate, entrepreneurial team to bring supersonic travel to the region," said Blake Scholl, founder of Boom. "San Francisco to Shanghai, for example, could shrink from 11 hours to six - and a typical round-trip itinerary can be accomplished two whole days faster. "But the benefits of faster travel extend far beyond the time savings. "What really matters are the new trips you choose to take - the ones you otherwise wouldn't have considered because the journey was simply too long. "When we fly twice as fast, the world becomes twice as small, turning far off lands into familiar neighbours." Boom is building a supersonic airliner capable of carrying 55 premium passengers at Mach 2.2 (2,335 kilometres per hour), more than twice as fast as current passenger airplanes at the same cost as today's business class fares. "As a leading innovator in the commercial aviation industry, Boom will be positioned to provide exciting premium global flight options for Ctrip users and Ctrip is making a strategic investment in the next generation of travel. "In addition, Ctrip's unrivalled expertise in the business-travel market will help Boom to further deepen its relationships with Chinese airlines," said James Liang, co-founder of Ctrip. Ctrip has made an investment into Boom Supersonic, joining other strategic partners like Japan Airlines to accelerate the future of air travel. Previously, Japan Airlines has also pre-ordered 20 Boom aircraft, joining Virgin Group as a Boom launch customer.

Virgin Atlantic founder Sir Richard Branson has again been named as the travel industry's richest person, despite seeing his family's wealth fall by £340 million over the last year. Branson and his family is worth an estimated £4.5 billion in this year's The Sunday Times Rich List, which gives him a ranking of 29th overall in the UK – down from 23rd place a year ago. Another airline entrepreneur, easyJet founder Sir Stelios Haji-loannou saw his family's fortune increase by £1 billion year-on-year to reach £2.95 billion, thanks mainly to a rise in easyJet's shares and dividends over the past year. Haji-loannou is ranked 48th overall compared with 64th in 2017. Other travel industry figures to feature in the list (105th) include the Matharu siblings, who own Grange Hotels in the UK, and have an estimated worth of £1.3 billion – up by £283 million year-on-year. Southall Travel's Kuljinder Bahia ranked 300th on the list with a value of £427 million, which was a rise of £7 million on 2017's figure. Other notable figures include Philip Meeson, executive chairman of Jet2.com's owner Dart Group, who is worth an estimated £403 million – a valuation that has risen by £107 million over the past year. Trailfinders' founder Mike Gooley has seen his fortune rise by £20 million to reach to £380 million.

OTHER NEWS

On 20.5 visiting G-OAYJ was picked up by a dust devil which blew through the airfield in the early afternoon. It completely left the ground, was flicked inverted and then thrown back down. Luckily it was unoccupied at the time and is so extensively damaged that it is a write off. I have never seen anything like this in forty plus years of aviation.

April 2018

Commentary

April was a bit more interesting than March with 9 Netjets, 10 German visitors and the MOD sent us Hawk, our first Phenom, BN2T, Tornado and A400M Atlas. Look out for the Norwegian Piper Cub and Polish microlight. Once the residents and regulars are removed, there were 181 movements to report on versus 160 last month. Top O & D's (Origin and Destination) were Jersey, Luton, and Le Bourget with only 4 new ones in Crowfield, Osnabruck, Trieste and Nordholtz Naval Base in Germany.

Regular Visitors:

Air Ambulance flights: G-NHAA on the 6th & 16th, G-NHAB on the 6th, 16th & 25th.
